State Election Laws Violated, Charges Reed

When Finance Committee Accepted Contributions To Vane Campaign Fund Without Making Return To Secretary of State—Charge Came Through Testimony of "Angel" of Vane Campaign.

Washington, June 21.—The first charge of illegality in Pennsylvania's $3,000,000 senatorial primary was made today before the senate slush fund committee by Senator Reed, (D), of Missouri, chairman.

Reed said the finance committee of Philadelphia had violated state election laws by accepting contributions to the Vane campaign fund without making a return to the secretary of the Commonwealth.

This charge came during examination of Albert M. Greenfield, Philadelphia real estate dealer, and "Angel" of the Vane campaign, who said that his contributions to the Vane fund totaled $125,000.

Greenfield's testimony conflicted with earlier statements to the committee by Representative William S. Vare, the primary winner. Whereas Vare said he had signed but one note, amounting to $100,000 jointly with Greenfield, the latter declared that Vare and he had signed three notes jointly, one for $30,000, and two for $35,000.

Greenfield explained that the finance committee, of which Charles H. Tuff, president of the Metropolitan Trust Company of Philadelphia, was chairman, was a subsidiary of the General Vane-Beideman Campaign Committee, and all the money was turned over to the general committee.

The finance committee came within the law, Reed said, and the law was violated because the committee treasurer did not receive the money collected.

"If I was prosecuting attorney of that county," said Reed, "You would make an explanation to the jury."

"It isn't fair to say we were doing anything that was not right," replied Greenfield.

"I think it is absolutely fair to say so," snapped Reed.

Greenfield had testified that Jules E. Mastbaum, Philadelphia, President of the Stanley Company of America, had given the committee a $10,000 check and also $15,000 in cash.

Throughout the testimony, Reed and Greenfield clashed, particularly over the financial arrangements of the committee.

"I want you to be up on this situation," Greenfield said.

"Oh, never mind, I'm up on it and I'm up on you, too," Reed retorted.

At Reed's request, Greenfield produced a sheaf of checks, which, he explained, were handed to him by his stenographer before he left Philadelphia.

"You don't know where she got them, do you?" asked Reed.

"From the files," said Greenfield.

The list Reed pointed out did not reveal Mastbaum's $15,000 cash payment or any of Greenfield's $125,000 in contributions to the Vane campaign.

"I made by first contribution of $10,000 to the Vane campaign about April 20," said Greenfield. "The second was on May 4. I think it was $30,000 in cash."

Greenfield added that he gave $35,000 on May 10 in three checks, of $15,000, $20,000 and $35,000.

To make up these amounts, Greenfield said, he had "borrowed" $30,000 on May 4 from the People's Bank and Trust Company, $35,000 on May 10 from the same bank, and $35,000 on the same day from the Metropolitan Bank.

Second Day of Catholic Congress

Over 200,000 Attend Open-Air Mass Today at Eucharistic Congress Sunday.

Chicago, June 21.—With a gigantic open-air Mass, attended by more than 200,000 persons, including 12 cardinals and hundreds of other distinguished Catholic church dignitaries, the second day's program of the Twenty-Eighth International Eucharistic Congress, meeting for the first time in the United States, was launched today.

John Cardinal Bonzano, personal representative of Pope Pius XI, and eleven other cardinals, attended the Mass.

Addresses were made by Cardinals Von Faulhaber of Germany and DuBois of France, Archbishop Daniel Mannix of Melbourne and David I. Walsh, former United States Senator from Massachusetts.

A day of solemn service and with more than 1,000,000 persons attending Masses in Chicago's more than 300 Catholic Churches, inaugurated the congress Sunday.

Beneath the great arches of the Cathedral of the Holy Name, heavily draped in wheat, symbolical of the bread, the first day of the meeting took place.

Officially opening the congress, Cardinal Bonzano delivering the Pope's message, sounded a plea for unity, putting forward the hand of universal brotherhood to all peoples, which His Holiness grouped as "our separated brethren."

The Pope's Message.

From the glittering throne, draped in papal gold and white, the papal legate read a special message from the Pope in which the reigning Pontiff said:

"Other things also we would have you in our words urge upon the charity of those who gather in Chicago. We mean the return to the Roman Church of our separated brethren which must be sought and furthered that 'all may be one.' We mean that the work of the missions is to be far more widely spread, in order that temple and altars to Christ, hidden under sacramental veils, may be multiplied in lands not yet subjected to His sweet yoke and that new adherents of the Eucharist may be added to those who now adore."

Message to the World.

George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, who welcomed Cardinal Bonzano and his staff to Chicago, caught the spirit of the Pope's message, declaring that the congress had a distinct message to the world outside of the Catholic faith.

"Far be it from us to look upon this congress as a demonstration of our strength and numbers. Little would it avail us were it to vaunt our superiority and our own glory. Rather it is our hope that the example of our vivid attachment to the Holy Eucharist and evident appreciation of the gift that is ours therein may encourage those earnest, honest ones to learn for themselves of this marvelous consecration of God's part to us human."

Cardinal Mundelein declared that the "mass of wrecked homes" and the "restless and unhappy souls of the world, the growing disrespect for law and order" showed there is something "wanting in the life of our people today."

He predicted the great gathering in Chicago would have a beneficial effect on the entire world and especially America.

Thousands View Procession.

Chicagoans and the thousands of laymen from all sections of the world obtained the first close glimpse of the eleven cardinals and other distinguished church dignitaries attending the congress Sunday at a procession which preceded the solemn pontifical high Mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Name.

Four police sergeants mounted on snow-white horses, rode ahead to signal the advance of the prelates; then followed, in glittering uniforms of white and gold, the boys of the Visitation Band.

Behind the band came the Very Rev. Mr. Dennis J. Dunn, D. D., the Rev. Francis A. Ryan and the Rev. Joseph F. Morrison, all of Chicago. In their rear came the cross-bearer holding aloft the glittering image of the crucified Christ. The cross-bearer led a procession of acolytes who were followed by 220 altar boys in purple and crimson and 300 surpliced ecclesiastical students of Quinlan Seminary.

Then followed a long line of brothers, Carmelites, in white mantles and cowls, Augustinians and Christians in black, Trappist, Benedictines and others. In their train, walking four abreast, came the prelates—pastors and assistants of parishes in great cities, small country missions and from across the seas.

Cardinal Bonzano, representative of the Holy See, had made his appearance. He walked slowly behind the Mass officers. In the splendor of crimson capes, embroidered robes, gold chains, large jeweled crosses and rings adding a magnificent touch, came the other ten cardinals.

Check-up on Auto Licenses July 1

State Motor Vehicle Bureau Seeks Cooperation of Police—Licenses Must Be Renewed Before That Date—No Junior Operators Allowed in Cities.

Albany, June 21.—Charles A. Harnett, commissioner of motor vehicles, today in a communication to the chiefs of police and enforcement officers of the state requested cooperation in a state-wide check-up, beginning Thursday, July 1, by instructing all police officers to apprehend all automobile operators and chauffeurs who have not complied with the law relating to licenses.

The request is made because of the fact that all 1925-26 licenses will expire at midnight June 30.

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles has accorded to motorists every facility to secure 1926-27 licenses and all operators not chauffeurs have been repeatedly notified that licenses must be renewed before July 1, the beginning of the new license year. Officers of the bureau in New York city open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., and from June 12 to 21 have remained from June 21 to June 30, the New York offices will be open until 8 p. m.

Bureau offices in Albany, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. from June 21 to June 30, so that no motor car driver will have an excuse for failure to obtain a new license before the beginning of the new license year.

Commissioner Harnett also calls attention of the police chiefs to the fact that beginning July 1 no junior operator will be allowed to drive a motor vehicle within the limits of any city in the state.

"Nigger Chaser" Poison Fireworks Causes Death

Four Year Old Son of Chauncey Coumbes of Third Avenue Obtained One and Ate It—Removed to Kingston City Hospital and Died Ten Minutes Later.

The first fireworks fatality of the season in Kingston occurred Saturday evening when little Leslie, the four-year-old son of Chauncey Coumbes of No. 97 Third avenue, died ten minutes after being admitted to the Kingston City Hospital from the effects of swallowing a "nigger chaser" that morning.

Saturday noon Dr. Joseph Jacobson of the hospital staff was called to Third avenue to attend the child and administered treatment. As the day wore on the child gradually grew worse and at 7 o'clock it was decided to rush the boy to the hospital, where he died ten minutes later.

It is said that the little tot obtained a "nigger chaser" and was seen to swallow it, and death followed from poison. A nigger chaser is about the size of a twenty-five cent piece but somewhat thicker. It is a piece of fireworks wrapped in a paper and is intended to be thrown on the sidewalk and then stepped on, when it goes off with a popping sound and the contents of the small package as it explodes flies in all directions with a spattering noise.

Margaret Riseley Resigns Position

Efficient County Court Stenographer Resigns Position After Twenty-seven Years' Service—Has Reported Many Important Trials—Will Remove From Kingston.

Miss Margaret Riseley, for twenty-seven years county court stenographer, has resigned her position and on July first will retire from the position which she has held under Judge John G. Van Etten, Judge Charles F. Cantine, Judge James Jenkins and Judge Joseph M. Fowler. The present term of the county court now in session will be the last one which she will report.

At the time of her appointment in June, 1899, under Judge John G. Van Etten Miss Riseley was the first woman county court stenographer to serve in Ulster county and at that time she was one of the first women court stenographers in the state. She succeeded County court stenographer D. C. MacMillan at the time of his death. Mr. MacMillan while not then a resident of the county was the county court stenographer, coming here for each term of the county court from his home in New Jersey.

Prior to being appointed county court stenographer, Miss Riseley has been assistant Supreme court librarian under Judge Alton B. Parker and librarian for one year under Judge A. T. Clearwater. Just prior to her being appointed county court stenographer she was stenographer to Judge Alton B. Parker who as chief justice of the court of appeals maintained an office in the court house here.

During the long term as stenographer to the county court Miss Riseley has filled the position in a most able manner and but once during that time has she asked for assistance in reporting a trial. That was during the Hyrd murder trial a few years ago when the defendant was convicted of murder, first degree, in the killing of a police officer of the city force. During her 27 years as court stenographer there have been many important cases before the local courts.

In addition to being stenographer to the county court Miss Riseley is also stenographer to Judge Fowler in Children's court. She is a Certified Shorthand Reporter with the degree of C. S. R. under the State Regents.

At the time Miss Riseley was appointed member of the Ulster county bar at that time signed her petition with the exception of two members who did not have an opportunity to do so. At that time the position was not under civil service rules as at present.

The resignation of Miss Riseley will create a vacancy for the position and an eligible list will have to be called for from the state civil service board. After an examination an appointment will be made from the eligible list certified by the civil service board.

Miss Riseley contemplates leaving town and taking up her residence elsewhere.

AFRICAN NATIVE BAPTIZES SCORE, THEN KILLS THEM

Receives Pay for Slaying
Men and Women Hated
by Chieftains.

Livingston, Northern Rhodesia.—Because he baptized more than a score of men and women—and then drowned them so they would not return to "sinful ways"—Tomo Njendani, a native, has been hanged by British authorities in Northern Rhodesia. Two other men were executed with Tomo. They were native chieftains who were convicted of bribing Tomo to include their personal enemies among his "converts."

Studied at Baptist Mission.
Tomo was a student in a Baptist mission before he began his series of crimes. He was especially attracted by the ceremony of baptism, finally deciding to go among the native tribes to immerse the people in the rivers and creeks of the country.
Tomo met Chief Shalwila, head of a strong tribe, who suspected enemies of bewitching him, making him blind in one eye, and his wife keeping her from having children. Shalwila suggested to Tomo that his baptism did no good, since natives returned to their sins speedily. He hinted that if Tomo should drown his converts they would go to heaven at once.

Killed Score of Persons.
So Tomo and the chief arranged the baptism of 20 persons, all of them enemies of the latter. Tomo drowned each of them.

Tomo then began a tour of the country, and it later was charged that he drowned many men and women for their native chieftains.

Finally the son of one of Tomo's victims told the British authorities of the fatal ceremonies. A troop of soldiers chased Tomo for a week before they captured him.

Tomo confessed the murders when he was tried and also admitted that he had received pay for many of them. So the following day he was hanged.

Miner's Dog Turns on Cougar, Saves His Life

Tacoma, Wash.—If hero medals were given to dumb animals, Henry B. Spencer of Tacoma would apply for one for Rex, his nine-month-old bird dog. Mr. Spencer credits his life to the dog, which proved his bravery in a hand-to-hand fight with a mother cougar and her three cubs.
Mr. Spencer, who is mining in the Olympic mountains, was suddenly confronted with the animals. He was unarmed and the beasts showed fight. Spencer threw rocks at the mother cougar, but in doing so he lost his balance and fell.
Before the enraged cougar could spring, Rex appeared and attacked one of the cubs. This distracted the mother, who turned on the dog. Spencer was able to retreat. The dog came through with only minor injuries.

Flying Foxes Worry Town

Yeppoon, C. Q.—A colony of flying foxes, near at hand in the scrub that grows in a dense mass on the side of a mountain, is one of the things that the people at Yeppoon (Central Queensland) have to worry about. Frequently at nightfall the flying foxes rise and fly over the township, completely obscuring the sky, according to the residents there. There are thousands of the flyers in the air at once. Yet it is none of these facts that annoy the residents so much as the peculiarly disagreeable smell of the beasts.

Falls Into Well

St. Paul, Minn.—Eighteen-month-old Thomas Weisner fell thirty feet down an open, dry well here, struck a ledge of concrete, rolled off and fell another twenty feet to the bottom of the shaft and emerged with only a slight scalp wound and a cut chin.

Barking Dogs Outlawed

The room was cleared for a few minutes, and the blood stains on the floor covered with carpets. Then gambling was resumed.

DESERT REVEALS TRIPLE TRAGEDY

Mother, Bitten by Snake, Kills
Children and Self.

Casa Grande, Ariz.—A grim tale of triple death on the desert was unfolded near here with the finding of the bodies of Mrs. E. J. Cox and her two children, aged six years and four months.

The woman killed her children, she explained in a note, to keep them from starving to death on the desert and then ended her own life because she could no longer stand suffering resulting from a rattlesnake bite.

The woman's husband found the bodies when he returned to the homestead, 23 miles southwest of here. Mrs. Cox had shot herself through the heart. A four-page note to her husband explained her action.

Parts of the note were written Sunday, Monday and Monday night. Toward the last the woman apparently weakened to such an extent that the handwriting was almost illegible.

The note disclosed that Mrs. Cox was bitten on the foot by the reptile Sunday night. She finally slit the wound with a knife after home remedies failed to alleviate her suffering. In so doing she severed an artery.

Weakened by loss of blood, she was unable to crank an automobile to go for aid. She fired a rifle several times, but this failed to attract the attention of neighbors, the closest seven miles away.

Cox had been working on a ranch a score of miles away.

Duck "Kid They Didn't Like" in Stagnant Pool

Boston.—Three East Boston boys are charged by the police with having stripped the clothing from a five-year-old youngster and tossed him into a pool of stagnant water, where he would have drowned but for the sharp eyes of a commuter on a passing train. They did it because they "didn't like the kid," one of them is said to have told the policemen.

According to the police report, the three boys were playing "hooky" when James McGinn, five, came along. He had mud stains on his trousers, and one of the older boys offered to clean them if he would take them off. He finally consented and the three removed all his clothing. They picked him up, carried him to the edge of the pool and threw him in. Then they fled.

A short time after a train passed and one of the passengers saw the body. He jumped off, ran to the pool and dragged the youngster to the surface. The boy was unconscious, but the commuter, whose identity the police do not know, went to work on him and by means of artificial respiration partly revived him. When he saw the child was returning to consciousness, he summoned the police.

Negro Boys Attempt to Crucify Companion

Atlantic City, N. J.—The story of how a group of negro boys tried to crucify one of their companions was brought to light when the parents of eleven-year-old Harry Brown, a negro, took him to the Atlantic City hospital for treatment of a deep flesh wound in the palm of his right hand.

Harry said he was playing in a vacant lot near his home in North Kentucky avenue recently when his companions conceived the idea of staging an impromptu Passion play—with Harry picked for the leading role. All went well until the crucifixion scene. They laid Harry out on his back and on an improvised cross made of old boards.

He said he was innocent of their intentions until one of them started to hammer a twenty-penny nail into his hand, with a large rock. Harry howled, and the Passion play stopped right there.

Oils Used in Flaxing

For many years the United States has been the greatest producer of flaxseed and flaxseed oil, and from present indications this fact is destined to last. Japan, Russia, Germany and England are also considerable producers, the last two countries turning out oils of the highest commercial quality. No accurate statistics of the world's output of these commodities appear to be available, but it is the impression among those best informed that the annual production of oil exceeds 400,000 pounds, of which the United States contributes about 200,000 pounds.

Classification of Cities

In America every town governed by a mayor and corporation is generally known as a city. In Canada the name is given to towns having more than a certain population. In Great Britain cities are created by royal authority, and the general rule now is that the dignity is given to a great town which is also the center of an important industrial district.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 21, 1926.

Thomas A. Edison's maiden speech over the radio was brief and to the point: "Why, I don't know what to say. This is the first time I ever spoke into one of these things. Good night." Not a few longer speeches have been both less human and less interesting.

The New York World notes that the "lady Sheriff" of Clinton, N. Y., is not keeping her jail clean, as was naturally counted on, and recommends that she at once "provide herself with sand, soap, broom, mop, feather duster and a vacuum cleaner and get to work." But a "lady Sheriff," after capturing a man's job, may think she also has a right to a man's habits.

"Fifty years from now," says Booth Tarkington, "the skirt as an article of women's apparel will have disappeared. Even now it is merely a relic, a vestige." But there must be something, if only a "vestige," and even a vestige of a skirt will be more pleasing to the eye than a flimsy, semi-transparent echo of the ugly trousers of man—which may be the threatening possibility.

After hurling "disloyal" at those who would like to repeal or modify the law based on the Eighteenth amendment, Senator Borah turns round and says that the constitutional enfranchisement of the negroes "was one of the greatest mistakes this country ever made." Now does the aggressive and much-talking Senator from Idaho think the Constitution is "sacred" only in spots or only in one spot?

M. Painleve, who is not only France's Minister of War, but a scientist of recognized authority, is said to be inclined to blame the rainy and cold weather, from which France has been suffering during the normally smiling month of June, on the intense radio activity of these times. Whether due to radio activity or not, in a large part of the United States also something has caused June to resemble a cold-storage-product.

The four-day Eucharistic Congress in Chicago beginning June 20 is described as a devotional gathering for ritualistic service to be participated in by Catholics from all parts of the world. The first congress of its kind was at Lille, France, in 1881, the 19th in London in 1908 was the first in an English-speaking country, and the one in Chicago will be the first on this side of the Atlantic, being due, it is said, to the growth of the church in America.

Contrary to much popular assertion, President Faunce of Brown University is of the opinion that the present youth of New England are no worse and possibly a little better than their forefathers. "Would any historian," he asks, "wish to exchange the worst traits of the Twentieth Century for the scandals of the Eighteenth Century? Bradford's history of the Pilgrim Fathers shows us within ten years after the Mayflower cast anchor such vices as are unknown to civilization today."

RELIGIOUS INTOLERANCE.

Governor Smith of New York was invited to speak on the Fourth of July at Monticello, the historic home of Thomas Jefferson, but after consideration has declined. Meanwhile, according to report, an anonymous document was circulated widely in the South—where "Jeffersonian principles" are supposed to be especially esteemed—portending against "this Jewish act, which in its pernicious intention is the crowning footstep of the efforts of Rome to place a Roman Catholic in the White House." Obviously Monticello is the last place in the world to be appropriately made the scene of the occasion of an expression of religious intolerance and bigotry, for it was the home of the author and promoter of the previous principle of religious liberty in America, who even after that principle was enacted into law saw reason to give warning to his fellow citizens as follows:

We have no objection to profane and vulgar jests in the name of religion, but we do object to the use of the name of God to justify every man who values liberty of conscience for himself to resist invasions of it in the case of others, or their case may, by change of circumstance, become his own. The proscribing any citizen as unworthy the public confidence, by laying upon him an incapacity of being called to offices of trust or emolument, unless he profess or renounce this or that religious opinion... tends to corrupt the principles of that very religion it is meant to encourage, by belittling with a monopoly of worldly honors and emoluments those who will externally profess and conform to it. We ought with one heart and one hand to hew down the daring and dangerous efforts of those who would seduce the public opinion to substitute itself into that tyranny over religious faith which the laws have so justly abominated.

GETTING HELP FROM NATURE.

We read that of 161 diabetic children treated without insulin 132 died within two and a half years.

With the advent of insulin treatment in the same institution, of 130 patients treated, 120 were alive three years afterwards.

If the diabetic patient survives the first year of his ailment, the diabetic danger zone, he has a far better chance to live many years, because regeneration of the pancreas has begun.

What is the final outcome is yet perhaps too soon to say, but there are many which were considered hopeless that are now strong and well, watching the diet carefully, but taking no insulin whatever.

The wonderful effects of insulin from the pancreas in combatting diabetes is paralleled by the use of the thyroid extract.

The deficiency in secretion of the thyroid gland in childhood is a serious matter because the growth of the youngster is dependent upon the normal functioning of the thyroid gland.

If deprived of this secretion the child does not grow properly, and resembles a dwarf in stature. With this lack of development of the body, there is also a lack of mental development.

The child does not learn to talk and to walk as early as normal youngsters, and the teeth are late in coming.

In measuring the heat manufactured by the body, it was found that they make less heat than a normal youngster, the amount being from 10 per cent to 40 per cent less than normal.

And the treatment here follows the same lines as the insulin treatment in diabetes, that is an extract of the thyroid gland to make up the deficiency.

This is given under the direction of the physician who carefully watches the effect upon the youngster's pulse, temperature, and heat production. Before he begins treatment he has an X-ray examination of the bones. After giving the treatment for some time he has another X-ray examination and the new centers of bone formation will be shown.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

Thomas Hickey, Life Guard of General Washington, Arrested for Mutiny, June 21, 1776.

The summer of 1776 in New York was one of intense excitement and tumult in consequence of the obnoxious course of the editor of Kingston's Gazette, a paper supported by the influence of the Tory population, and by the patronage of Governor William Tryon, who had returned from England. While driven to seek refuge on a British man-of-war in the harbor, the governor was at his floating headquarters in the "Duchess of Gordon" plotting with his friends on shore, for the ruin of the republican cause.

The feverish feeling in the city continued to manifest itself in occasional assaults upon those known to be unfavorable to the patriot cause, for while the king's men outside the city were openly making hostile preparations, some of his loyal subjects within the gates were scheming to deal the "rebellion" a severe blow.

In Pastor Schankirk's diary under date of June 13, 1776, is the following: "Here in town on Monday night some men called Tories were carried and hauled about the streets, with candles, forced to be held by them, or pushed in their faces, and their heads burned; but on Wednesday in the open day, the scene was far worse; several and among them gentlemen, were carried on rails; some stripped naked and dreadfully abused. Some of the generals, and especially Putnam and their forces had enough to do to quell the riot and make the mob disperse."

The intrigues of Governor Tryon rendered the fidelity of New York to the patriot cause a matter of considerable doubt, and in his liberal use of gold it was proposed to accomplish that which might otherwise be impracticable.

Tryon formed a plan for the murder of General Washington and his principal officers, or for their arrest and transportation to England to be tried for treason, and the capture of the troops on Manhattan Island. The money he sent ashore freely was to be used for purposes of bribery.

The Life Guard of Washington was tampered with, and on June 21, a number of arrests were made, including David Matthews, appointed Mayor during the British occupation; Gilbert Forbes, a gunsmith, and a number of other citizens, besides Private Thomas Hickey, and another member of the Life Guard.

It had been arranged to blow up the magazine, secure the passes to the city, and at one blow deprive the republicans of their leaders. About five hundred persons were concerned in the conspiracy. But, as often happens, a trifle upset the scheme. It is said the first disclosure came from a tramp imprisoned for some minor offense, and he exposed the plot.

To Hickey was intrusted the task of destroying Washington. He knew his commander was very fond of green peas, and he resolved to slay him by poison mixed in a dish to be set before him at dinner.

Hickey tried to make the general's housekeeper, a faithful maiden, an accomplice in the deed by placing the poison, which he procured, in the peas. She pretended to favor his plans.

At the appointed time for placing the savory dish before the general, Hickey watched her movements through a half-opened door. The general made some excuse for ordering the dish away without taking the peas. The girl had forewarned him.

Hickey was found guilty of "mutiny and sedition, and of holding treacherous correspondence with the enemies of his country," and was sentenced to be hanged. He was accordingly hanged on a tree, June 28, in the presence of fully twenty thousand people. It was the first military execution in the Continental Army.

Mayor Matthews and the others, arrested at the same time, were suspected of complicity in the plot, but only Hickey suffered. The plot was traced directly to Governor Tryon as its author.

The following day, June 29, the first sail of the enemy's fleet hove in sight off Sandy Hook.

General Howe was visited on board the "Greyhound" by Governor Tryon, who furnished an account of the preparations for Washington for the defense of New York.

On July 4 General Sir William Howe landed 5,000 troops upon Staten Island and there awaited the arrival of his brother, Admiral Lord Richard Howe, with English regulars and Hessian hirelings. They arrived in a few days.

Troy's New Hotel To Open Saturday

The Hendrick Hudson, Newest In Chain Operated by American Hotels Corporation, Which Also Operates The Governor Clinton, Is Community Project.

Troy's new community hotel, The Hendrick Hudson, will be formally opened to the public with an elaborate program on June 28 and 29 in which citizens generally will join. Governor Smith will be the principal speaker at the formal banquet, Tuesday, June 29.

The first day will be devoted to a public celebration, with a parade, patriotic addresses and daylight fireworks to be displayed in connection with a flag raising. Civic organizations, as well as city officials and the members of the board of directors of the hotel will join with the delegations from patriotic organizations, headed by a band for the parade. In line, also, will be the two hundred Troy Boosters who put through the campaign for raising funds for the new hotel.

On the same day, following the flag raising, the 1,100 stockholders and their friends will have an opportunity of inspecting the hotel between the hours of 4 p. m. and midnight. It is expected that over four thousand persons will pass through the hotel. A buffet supper will be served.

The American Hotels Corporation, operators of the hotel, have arranged for the routing of the house so that a continuous stream of visitors may pass through and see every department without confusion.

Lewis O. Tirrell, supervising manager for New York state, who for some time has been manager of the present Troy Hotel, formerly the Van Rensselaer, also operated by the American Company, is cooperating with President C. W. Ferguson and the local board of directors in perfecting plans for the celebration. Arrangements are being made for the entertainment of six hundred guests at the formal opening banquet on Tuesday night. Hotelmen from other cities and representatives of the contracting firms who assisted in building or furnishing the house, have been invited.

The new hotel, consisting of 165 guest rooms is a great civic improvement to Troy. Built at a cost of approximately $1,000,000, from plans drawn by Clarence L. Harding, architect, of Washington, D. C., it is a handsome structure, fireproof throughout and equipped in the most modern way. The Ernest F. Carlson Company of Springfield, Mass., were the general contractors. Much of the interior decorating and furnishing was executed by Walter M. Ballard of Washington, D. C., represented by S. M. Reiness.

The financing of the new hotel was supervised by the Hockenbury System of Harrisburg, Pa.

A distinctive feature is a reproduction of the Captain's cabin on the Half Moon, Hendrick Hudson's vessel. This room, on the mezzanine floor of the hotel, is constructed entirely of wood, with pecky cypress utilized to give an antique effect to the interior. Three huge wooden columns, representing masts, extend from the floor to the ceiling. The entrance is through a partly opened hatchway. Instead of windows, there are portholes, with the Half Moon reproduced in colors on the glass. A charming fireplace contains old Dutch andirons. Ship's lanterns suspended from the ceiling and from brackets on the walls supply the illumination. The huge plank doors are swung on old iron Dutch hinges. For the floor random-sized, hand-adzed planks with carking in the V joints, give a realistic impression of a ship's deck. Seats are arranged in booth fashion, the partitions being shaped into models of plunging dolphins. Half-moons are carved in the backs of old-fashioned Dutch chairs which are spotted about the room. A door opening upon a corridor is typical of ship construction, one half swinging up towards the ceiling and the lower half swinging to one side. At the entrance, a glass sign showing the Half Moon is displayed and on the other side is a grill opening with an old ship's bell above it. Every feature of this Half Moon cabin has been carefully authenticated by the Ballard Company.

A beautiful ballroom, with a seating capacity of over four hundred, is another exceptionally fine feature of the hotel.

Another attraction is a Spanish Patio not quite completed. A feature will be a magnificent fountain now under construction by a San Francisco firm. The patio will occupy the center of the building opening from the promenade corridors.

The American Company, of which General J. Leslie Kincaid is president, will operate both hotels as a part of their chain of twenty-two hotels which is affiliated with the United Hotels Company of America.

So great has been the demand for hotel accommodations in Troy, that for the past three weeks, even in its unfinished condition, the new hotel has entertained several important conventions. Owing to the pressure of business, especially banquets and other social festivities, the usual four-day opening program had to be condensed into two days.

The new hotel faces Monument Square at Broadway and Second street, with entrances from both streets. It is a handsome structure, seven stories high, built of brick with stone facades. The first floor contains ten stores.

Nutty Natural History

THE FUMBLING FLOOP.

To make a recognizable picture of a floop is a most difficult task for the artist, as this eccentric creature is never seen in a position that looks like any preceding one. Its method of navigation is a sort of succession of handspings, and in this way it can make such great speed that it has been known to overtake the giant spring-tailed kangaroo of Northern Alberta, where the floop is usually found. When in captivity, the floop goes in for a daily dozen by using its forelegs for a turning-pole and when tired stops in any position and goes to sleep. The artist got the floop in the position shown in the picture, but it might as well have been any other.

A large single peanut is used for the body of the floop, but it doesn't make much difference whether you have it right side up or upside down. A smaller single peanut does for the head. Toothpicks answer for the legs and neck, split almond kernels are used for the feet, and the tail is a clove with a star macaroni. (Metropolitan Newspaper Service.) All-Stars Beat Mechanics, 13-6

Saturday afternoon the Kingston All-Stars sent the American Mechanics down to defeat by a 13-6 score.

Caunitz was nipped for six runs the three innings he stayed on the mound. He allowed seven hits and gave one free pass. Bush took his place in the fourth frame and was more generous with both base hits and runs.

Stouff on the mound for the All-Stars let the Mechanics down with seven hits and put five away by the strikeout route.

The All-Stars did the first scoring when they received three runs in the first and the same number in the second frame. The ninth frame saw them with thirteen tallies. In the sixth frame the Mechanics sent one winner across the rubber and in the seventh another tally. The ninth inning saw them nipped Freddie Stouff for a total of four runs making it six.

Rickard to Visit Board Tuesday

With His Dempsey Program for 1926 —Dempsey Also Must Come to the Line on the Wills Issue.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

New York, June 21.—Unless his silence on the Wills challenge is broken by tomorrow, and the intelligence will quote you 100 to 1 against it—Jack Dempsey either will be read out of his title or indefinitely suspended by the New York State Athletic Commission. This action was forecast today by Chairman James A. Farley, twenty-four hours in advance of Tex Rickard's off-postponed visit to the commission with his Dempsey program for 1926.

This rendezvous or its subsequent developments will determine whether Rickard or the commission is running boxing in this state. That Rickard will keep the date, after giving it a successful run-around for some weeks, seems to be ordained by the fact that tomorrow also marks the deadline set by the board for Dempsey to come to the line on the Wills issue.

Farley declined to anticipate the nature of the action that will result when Dempsey turns up missing again, either in person, which is geographically impossible, or by proxy. However, it was pointed out to the chairman that a mere suspension would defeat his reputed aim, a Dempsey-Wills match for the heavyweight title, and he agreed. Naturally, if Dempsey is declared ineligible, no promoter will be permitted to sign him for anything, a Wills bout included.

The only logical decision, therefore, would declare the heavyweight title vacant and a match between Harry Wills and Gene Tunney ordered with the championship going to the winner. If Farley wishes to go that far, he can do so, for in addition to his own vote, he claims a controlling majority from the votes of Messrs. Phelan and Wear, members of the License Committee.

ROBIE WILL REMAIN AT ROSENDALE ANOTHER WEEK.

Because of the deepening interest and the growing attendance, Evangelist Robie will continue the services at the Rosendale Reformed Church every evening this week except Monday, at 8 o'clock, closing the campaign next Sunday night, June 27. Saturday night about 150 took part in a parade through the streets of the village, headed by a band, many carrying appropriate signs advertising the meetings and singing hymns as they marched. When the line of march was completed all went into the church for the service, nearly every seat being filled. The sacred concert arranged by Mr. Robie was enjoyed by everyone who heard it. Both services on Sunday were largely attended. At the Sunday evening service every seat was occupied, delegations from several places being present, some coming many miles to attend the service. There will be prayer meetings at the homes each morning at 10 o'clock. The slightly themes which Evangelist Robie will discuss this week are of vital interest and importance. Everyone, everywhere invited to all these meetings.

Put Faith in God, Urges Dr. Seeley

source of moral power except that which comes from religion." People might say it makes no difference whether a person belongs to this denomination or that, is a Catholic or Protestant, a Jew or Gentile, but they cannot truthfully say it makes no difference whether or not a young man believes in the Christian God. The late president Wilson was quoted as concluding an essay on "The Road away from Evolution," as follows: "The sum of the whole matter is this, that our civilization cannot survive materially unless it be redeemed spiritually. It can be saved only by becoming permeated with the spirit of Christ and being made free and happy by the practices which spring out of that spirit."

The Effect of Materialism.

Dr. Seeley emphasized what Edward Rowland Sill, the poet, said in writing to a Yale classmate: "People think that a thinking man's speculations about religion interfere with his daily life very little but how certain conclusions do take the shine out of existence, which is just what materialism does; it takes the shine out of existence and the joy out of life."

The speaker reminded his hearers of Gilbert K. Chesterton's saying that the test of an idea was the ability of men to use it as an oath; that the great realities of life were those that men could swear by (betting your life there is a God), and with characteristic whimsicality adding, "the great trouble with Ethical Culture minus God is that the only oath which it can swear by is 'Oh, my goodness,' a decidedly weak and tame oath."

Dr. Seeley said, "How different to go out into life with the words of the Psalmist in one's heart and upon one's lips, 'Oh God, Thou art my God,' said Dr. Seeley.

Taking Fun Out of Life.
"The more a man cares about goodness and the struggle to achieve goodness, the more does a Godless philosophy take the shine out of existence, the fun out of life." "The living God revealed in Christ, my God, or a materialistic philosophy of life, that is the real issue," said Dr. Seeley.

Phillips Brooks once told the men of Harvard, "Here is the last great certainty. Be sure of God! By simple loving worship, by continual moral obedience, creep close to Him. Keep close to Him. Be sure of God and nothing in the end can ever overthrow you."

The preacher reminded his hearers that there is no difficulty in getting men to accept the inventions of modern science, there is no fear that our institutions of learning will fail to equip men to explore the secrets of the natural world. It is far more difficult to get them to accept freedom from prejudice, the guidance of truth wherever it leads, which comes from spiritual faith which alone has made those inventions possible and which is the crowning glory of the mind and spirit of man.

The Central Faith.

The central faith of the soul in a living, personal God is like the air. It comes to us in many favors, but it is still air and it gives life. So is the central faith that finds God in Christ and says, "O God, Thou art my God." Cardinal Mercier was a Romanist and David Livingstone of Africa a Scotch Presbyterian. Yet what the simple Belgium peasant found in the one and the black man found in the other was the burning consciousness of the reality and love of God interpreted in terms of human usefulness.

In closing Dr. Seeley said, "Benjamin Franklin gave us a magnificent definition of God in two words: 'Powerful Goodness.' Oh, that's it! That's what I crave for you young people, to believe in God with all your might and to believe in Powerful Goodness. You tell me you are helpless in the face of tremendous obstacles. I answer 'No! I believe in Powerful Goodness.' That is what I want you to feel that faith in God means. It means love, joy, peace, righteousness, life. In the power of the Psalmist's cry, go out to face your future without a single fear—'O God, Thou art my God.'"

State to Restore Old Battlefields

Advisory Board Prepares Plans For Oriskany, Fort Stanwix, Bennington and Saratoga.

Albany, June 21.—The restoration and proper marking of New York's famous battlefields in the American war for Independence for which an appropriation was made by the Legislature of 1926 has been begun and will be progressed as rapidly as possible in order that by 1927 the 150th anniversary of the surrender of General Burgoyne, the battles of Oriskany, Bennington and Saratoga can be studied on the ground on which they were fought from markers and works showing the positions of the opposing armies, camps, fortifications, etc.

One hundred and fifty years of peaceful occupation have nearly obliterated all traces of the Burgoyne campaign, which was planned to separate the rebellious colonies in New England from those in the south, and subdue them. With Albany as their common objective, Gen. Clinton was to move up the Hudson, Gen. Burgoyne started from Canada by way of Lake Champlain and Gen. St. Leger from Canada by way of the Oswego and Mohawk valley route. Fort Stanwix and the battle of Oriskany stopped St. Leger, the battle of Bennington crippled Burgoyne's army which was defeated at Bemis Heights, where the battle of Saratoga was fought, and surrendered. The battle of Saratoga was one of the decisive battles of the world.

The first step toward the restoration of the Saratoga battlefield has been taken by the advisory board on battlefields and historic sites which has approved the expenditure by Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald, of $55,000 for the purchase of the Freeman, Seales, Gammon and Nelson farms at Bemis Heights on which the battle was fought. As soon as the title has passed to the state the work of removing the farm boundary lines and uniting them all in one battlefield reservation will be begun.

The advisory board in charge of the development of the sites consists of Mayor George A. Slingerland of Mechanicville, chairman; Assemblyman Burton D. Emond of Ballston, vice-chairman; Herbert F. Prescott, secretary to the Conservation Commission, secretary. Senator Warren T. Thayer of Chateaugay, Thomas C. Brown of Schenectady, Jeremiah Keck of Johnstown, Assemblyman William D. Thomas, Hoosick Falls; Gordon Ferguson, Utica; the Rev. Father J. J. Finn, Stillwater; Francis Lynch, Victory Mills; Dr. Alexander C. Flick, state historian.

For the rehabilitation and historic marking of historic sites at Saratoga, Bennington, Fort Stanwix, Oriskany, and the route taken by General Knox in conveying cannon captured at Fort Ticonderoga to Cambridge, Mass., for the siege of Boston, $75,000 appropriated by the legislature was allocated as follows:

Saratoga—Scene of the surrender of Schuyler, headquarters and routes of the armies to the battle and surrender; the sites of the Jane McCrea massacre, observation points and supply depots, $40,000.

Bennington Battlefield historical marking and the route of the armies to the battlefield, $30,000.

Fort Stanwix and Oriskany—Marking of the site of the battles; the routes of the armies to the forts and battlefields, the sites of St. Leger's main camps and the battery emplacements and the bastion of Fort Stanwix, on which the stars and stripes first were unfurled, $16,000.

Marking the route used by General Knox in transferring cannon to Boston, $10,000.

The following committees were appointed to prepare preliminary plans for the rehabilitation of the various sites as soon as possible and report back to the board.

Saratoga—Chairman, George A. Slingerland, Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald, Dr. Alexander C. Flick, state historian, Assemblyman Burton D. Emond and Francis Lynch.

Bennington—Assemblyman William D. Thomas of Hoosick Falls, chairman, and Dr. Flick with Captain F. L. Stevens of Hoosick Falls, who has been invited to act with the committee.

Fort Stanwix and Oriskany—Assemblyman Gordon Ferguson of Utica, chairman; the Rev. J. J. Finn of Stillwater, and Dr. Flick with Albert R. Koenig of Rome, and William Pierpont White, who will be invited by the advisory board to cooperate with the committee.

Knox Cannon Trail—Dr. Alexander C. Flick, state historian, chairman; Senator Mortimer Y. Ferris of Ticonderoga, Senator Warren T. Thayer of Chateaugay and Francis Lynch of Victory Mills. Major Albert S. Callan of Chatham, and Almon F. Hill of Fort Edward were invited by the advisory board to cooperate with this committee.

HERKIMER REFORESTING.

Forty Landowners in One Town
Plant Half Million Trees.

Albany, June 21.—At a forestry field day held at the forest plantation of D. F. Strobel in the town of Ohio, Herkimer county, it was shown that half a million trees have been set out in forest plantations by about 40 people for the purpose of making profitable use of land previously unproductive.

A feature of the meeting was the report of the results of a survey of the land made by Prof. J. A. Cope of Cornell, B. D. Gilbert, county agricultural agent and Charles A. Taylor of Cornell, who formerly was agricultural agent for the county. This survey shows:

Crops 2,220 acres
Pasture 2,390 acres
State land 1,418 acres
Merchantable timber 6,474 acres
Nonmerchantable timber 3,371 acres
Reforested 365 acres
Idle land 7,834 acres

The results of plantations already made would indicate that the following species are best adapted to this town:

Scotch Pine—Exposed knolls, side hill, washes, frost pockets.
Red Pine—Very dry areas but less exposed than the above, often hilly, moss covered.

White Pine—On best of idle soils in town, avoid frost pockets and exposed sites.

For fence posts, European Larch may well be planted on sites suited to White Pine.

Trees for planting may be secured from the Conservation Commission at Albany.

The use of waste land for forestry purposes in the northern part of Herkimer county has been growing rapidly in popularity for several years past as the growing plantations demonstrate the possibilities of this land for growing timber crops.

In the town of Russia 111 such plantations had been made up to the beginning of the present year.

CONSTRUCTION PROGRESS ON STATE HIGHWAYS.

The following bulletin shows the highway construction accomplished during the week ending June 18, 1926:

Number of contracts under way 143
Number of pavements being laid 61
Number of men employed by contractors 6,748

Sq. Yds. of pavement completed during week 195,513
Sq. Yds. of pavement completed during season $80,303

Maintenance force employed by the State 5,234

The above yardage represents 17.65 miles of completed pavement for the week and a total of 31.75 miles for the season.

1,784 miles have been oiled to date and there are but 27 miles remaining to be oiled, which will be entirely cleaned up during the coming week.

Due to the extremely cold and wet spring, the pavement progress is considerably behind that of last year. To date $2 million of pavement have been laid against 117 miles on the same date in 1925.

Offer Good Excuses for That First Lie

"It was this way," said the Doctor. "My star patient was getting better. Rather than lose him I decided an operation was necessary. You may call that lying if you like, but the operation was necessary—for me."

"My client confessed his guilt to me," said the Lawyer, "but for professional reasons it seemed unwise to let the case go by default. So I took it into court and won. For all we know, my client may have lied to me. At all events I needed the money."

"My first lie," said the Psychoanalyst, "came as the result of an accumulation of inhibitions and repressions dating back to infancy. Need I go farther? I love the truth, but, oh, you libido!"

"My first lie," said the Diplomat, "was merely preliminary to my second, which as you may recall, enabled me to pull a nation out of a most embarrassing predicament. Was I justified? History shall be my judge."

"I never tell a lie," said the Chronic Liar, "unless it is absolutely necessary. And," he added thoughtfully, "it almost always is."—Kansas City Star.

Nerves of Invalids Soothed by Pictures

Art is being used successfully in the treatment of nervous diseases in a Philadelphia hospital. Pictures in proper colors, when exhibited to patients, have a soothing effect, it has been found. Reds and other "hot colors" are not used, since they disturb the nervous system. In some of the more turbulent cases it has been necessary to hang the paintings out of reach of the patients.

The basic idea is that of the emotion being affected by color, so great care is exercised in selecting the right pictures.

"The colors we find most advantageous," said a hospital attaché, "are the cool ones. These bring a calming influence. For this reason landscapes, seascapes and mountain scenes are preferable. The wave-wash on a New England coast, a sunny pastoral scene, puffy white clouds astride mountain peaks, all reveal peace, stillness, rest."

Explaining "Sea Serpents"

It can be said that many of the stories of the sea serpent can be explained as being due to mistaken interpretations of large fishes, dolphins, and whales; but there are two or three well-authenticated statements, such as that reported by the warship Drednaught of China, and another reported from Lord Crawford's yacht, which seem to resemble prehistoric types.

There is nothing impossible in the suggestion that there should be animals living of which we have no knowledge, but there is a great difference between the possible and the probable. There are, for instance, giant squids, which have enormous feelers, and which, if raised above the water, would present somewhat of the appearance attributed to the sea serpent.—London Mail.

Many Self-Taught Men

"That middle-aged man who just went out came in about a year and a half ago," said a Detroit bookkeeper to a news reporter. "Then he bought an arithmetic. Later he came in after algebra and a geometry. Today he dropped in for a trigonometry and key. I venture to say when that man completes his mathematical study all dog out by himself, he will have a more thorough knowledge than most college graduates. You'd be surprised to learn how many of these self-taught men are in Detroit doing into every sort of subject." Which is not strange. But it is easier and quicker to get it in college if time and means are to be had.

STATE COMMISSION SAYS DRINK MORE SARATOGA

Geyser and Hathorn Famous Saratoga Waters

The State Conservation Commission, responsible for the welfare of Saratoga Springs, has had authorized physicians and chemists analyze the waters of the natural springs at Saratoga and designate Geyser Water as a relief for acidity and Hathorn water a natural laxative and eliminant.

Acidity of the stomach, for which Geyser is indicated, is the result of too much indoor life, too much soft, rich food, especially meats, starches and sweets, lack of sufficient exercise and a general lessening of the vital powers. Many symptoms and disturbances may accompany acidity, such as foul breath, headaches, bilious attacks, weariness, sleeplessness, rheumatic tendencies, etc. Hence the great usefulness of Geyser water.

All such troubles are often accompanied by constipation, faulty elimination and the accumulation of waste products. Saratoga Hathorn by its natural eliminative powers cleanses the system, adding to the functional vigor. Drink before breakfast. Most delightful in taste and effects. In matters of health it is wise to consult your physician.
